Incentives for Green Living

Did you know you could get money for existing eco-friendly features in your home? There are also programs that give you financial help to add sustainable features to your home.

Find information on federal, local and utility programs and incentives that support eco-friendly living at the City of Phoenix Sustainability Incentives webpage. You can learn about ways to save energy and water, which can also save you money on your bills. Visit the webpage today and start making a difference!

Beat the Heat

When it's over 100 degrees, it's important to stay cool, hydrated, and informed. The Phoenix area will experience very high temperatures. People can get sick from the heat, especially older adults, people outside, and those without air conditioning or enough water.

If you or someone you know needs a place to cool off, check out the Phoenix Heat Relief Network. They offer free water and cool indoor places to help you stay safe.

That's Amazing!

Check out the Recycle Right Wizzard! The City of Phoenix Public Works Department Zero Waste team has a handy app called the Recycle Right Wizzard that allows you to search any item to learn how to recycle it.
